

Renowned artist Janey Emery with one of the unique portraits that will form part of her solo exhibition Pieces of Me at Fusion Fine Arts gallery.

Art imitates life for versatile artist

THE journey of life is Janey Emery's inspiration for her forthcoming art exhibition Pieces of Me, which opens on Friday night at Fusion Fine Arts, Dolphin Quay.

Emery showcases her versatility as an artist, with exquisite paintings of landscapes, seascapes, nudes and portraits, all evoking the power of emotion.

Pieces of Me embraced the people, places and activities that surround us on a daily basis and provide an endless source of inspiration, the renowned Perth artist said.

Emery has once again captured the passion and soul of the human spirit on canvas, with a dramatic series of confronting new portraiture works.

Her sophisticated nudes are painted using extreme light and dark tonal values with semi-abstract backgrounds and are a stunning portrayal of the female form.

She also showcases an elaborate series of land and seascapes that she feels invite the viewer into a peaceful place, with each piece having its own story of life's little journeys.

Pieces of Me follows Emery's popularity at Art Melb and is her much anticipated and only solo exhibition for this year.

Emery is a favourite with Fusion clientele and is also the gallery's final solo exhibition for the year.

The exhibition will be opened tonight by Arthur Marshall and will continue until December 2.

Fusion Fine Arts is open Tuesday to Sunday from 10am to 4pm.
