

Rapt in raising charity funds

SHOPPERS can have at least one of their Christmas chores "all wrapped up", thanks to hard-working volunteers from Peel Relay for Life, who are providing a free gift-wrapping service at the complex.

In return, Dolphin Quay is making a donation to the charity and providing all the wrapping paper, ribbons and bows.

The free gift-wrapping service is available every Saturday and Sunday from 10am to 4pm.

Peel Relay for Life, which is already busy fundraising for next year's 24-hour relay as part of the world's biggest fundraiser for cancer, will have collection tins on hand for those shoppers who would like to donate their loose change.

Gift-wrappers Sue Dovey, Gayle McGovern and Jan Ellis.
