

Antique action at Dolphin Quay

THERE were tins, plates, medals and more as hundreds of people headed to Dolphin Quay for the inaugural Dolphin Quay Antiques Fair.

Collectors, valuers and enthusiasts were among the crowds at the two-day fair, with several visitors leaving with a big smile after finding out they owned valuable items.

Dolphin Quay also hosted a variety of family entertainers, including face painters, musicians and caricaturist Luke Watson. There was also free fairy floss and hugs from Dippy Dolphin.
